A ROOM-MAKING SALE THIS WEEK OF

GOWNS, SUITS, WRAPS, FURS!

ABOUT this time of year we usually have our Fall Opening. This season we had planned on a larger and grander scale than ever before, in honor of the new addition to our store—which was to have been ready September 1st.

THE GOODS ARE HERE, BUT THE STORE IS NOT READY!

We cannot leave the beautiful Gowns, Suits, Wraps and Fine Furs in the boxes and cases any longer. They must be unpacked. Then it's a case of sell or soil. Several elevators have yet to be put in—partitions must come down—fixtures must be moved, etc., and to avoid getting the goods soiled we have determined to mark them at extremely low prices so as to sell them quick.

SOUGHT DIVORCE, WINS AN ESTATE

Mrs. Marie Fleming Everest Brown Estates Made Custodian by Denver Court.

HEROINE OF A ROMANCE

Her Elopement in California Followed by Marriage Which Proved Unhappy.

Mrs. Marie Fleming Everest Brown, widow of a wealthy Denver and Chicago man and recent bride of an East St. Louis man, has been awarded the custody of the entire estate of her late husband, Harry G. Brown, according to a telegram from Denver.

Probate Judge Lindsey ordered James J. Brown and John H. Reddin, as trustees of the estate, to make a report of assets, estimated at $100,000, within two weeks.

The court held that Brown and Reddin, as trustees, had no right to hold control of the estate, and said the holdings should be turned over to the wife, who was appointed administratrix shortly after her husband's death.

Mrs. Everest-Brown is a daughter of Mrs. H. L. Magee of 415 Park boulevard, and spent her youth in St. Louis, though for two years she has lived chiefly in Denver and Chicago.

Her marriage to Harry G. Brown more than two years ago was most romantic. She met him at Denver; relatives interfered, and she was taken to San Francisco. He followed and she was taken to Los Angeles. He followed again, and one day she escaped from her grandmother and went with him to Santa Barbara. The grandmother learned of their plans and persuaded them to abandon the elopement and come to St. Louis for a home ceremony.

The period of happiness of the newly married couple was brief, and a year ago both filed suits for divorce. These suits were pending when Brown died.

Contest Shows Marriage.

Relatives of Brown immediately began a contest with the widow for the property.

In filing papers in this contest, the widow disclosed the fact that she was no longer a widow, but that soon after her husband's death she had married J. Clark Eastes, who gave East St. Louis as his home.

St. Louis relatives of the young woman declared they knew nothing of the wedding, and avowed their disbelief in the news. Mrs. Magee said she and her daughter were planning an European tour, and she was confident there was nothing in the report of the wedding. But confirmation soon came.

Minister Who Says "More Pay Or I'll Practice Law"

REV. F. A. MAYHALL.

ding. But confirmation soon came. Soon after her first marriage, Mrs. Eastes became wealthy in her own right. The favorite of her grandmother, Mrs. Everest, whose name she took,

she inherited the large estate of the latter soon after the romantic marriage with Brown.

"PAY ME ENOUGH TO LIVE LIKE YOU"

St. Louis Minister's Ultimatum—"More Salary or I'll Practice Law."

EXPENSE TOO HEAVY

"Must Keep Up With Procession," Cost High in Rich Church.

Rev. F. A. Mayhall of Hamilton Avenue Christian Church sticks by the ultimatum he delivered to his congregation Sunday morning.

In a sermon he bluntly said: "Give me sufficient salary to live in the style the congregation expects or permit me to practice law and make in a secular way enough money to live as the pastor of this congregation should live."

Rev. Mr. Mayhall gave his church until Oct. 1 to accept his proposition. "I want to be a preacher-lawyer or a lawyer-preacher," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday. "That is the proposition that I placed before my congregation Sunday morning."

"I have studied over the matter carefully, thoughtfully and my decision is final."

"A preacher must live up to the community he is in or be outclassed. He must maintain the style of living, to a degree that his congregation is accustomed to."

"I do not mean that the minister is expected to live extravagantly. But he must have a home in which his parishioners will find the same comforts as they do in their own homes."

"A minister must keep up with the procession."

"The man who represents a strong church ought to have an income on par with his responsibility."

"No minister can afford to represent Hamilton Avenue Church on a penny basis."

"I will be no worse a pastor because I am a lawyer. My secular calling will not impair my spiritual force."

"Judge Charles Schofield of Carthage, Ill., was pastor of the Christian Church just west of Grand avenue. In his time he had charge of the church. From a nucleus of 12 he increased the membership to 800."

"I believe the world is to be converted to Christ by practical men, men of affairs; men who will tell sinners facts instead of poetry."

"Some members of my congregation object to my plan, but most of my members are in harmony with me."

"If I should leave this church I would practice law and engage in mission work east of Grand avenue. There is a great field. They say a preacher can't make a living east of Grand avenue. What is meant is that wealthy folks have moved westward and churches east of Grand avenue cannot sustain themselves. The minister's hire is poor."

"I want to stop the criticism that ministers follow the purse rather than the people."

"A minister who is self-sustaining can do more good than one who is dependent. I know one man in St. Louis who works six days in the week and has built up a flourishing congregation by his work and Sunday sermons."

"A preacher in charge of a church like mine has many drains on his purse. He has many guests. There are church conventions at distant cities he should attend. He has to buy many new books."

"There is a constant demand on his charity."

Mr. Mayhall is 30 years of age. He received his ministerial education at Christian University at Canton, Mo., and then came to St. Louis where he entered Washington University Law School, where he graduated. He resigned the pastorate of the Louisiana Christian Church to come to St. Louis. For two years he was at the Second Christian Church at Eleventh and Tyler streets.

MUSIC CAUSES FIGHT.

Row Over Singer Between Father and Uncle Spits Church.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—After a whole year of idleness because the congregation could not agree on a singer, the organ in South Union Church was heard Sunday night.

As the music was heard a middle-aged woman named Mrs. Eddy arose to sing, and then it was discovered that all was not yet satisfactory in the musical arrangements. The woman's uncle, William, who had been the organist, as he protested and finally the singer to stop, but her voice became stronger as he protested and finally the singer's father jumped up and ordered the uncle to sit down.

The brothers had many followers and before long the whole congregation was in an uproar. The husband of the singer rushed from the loft and leaped into the battle. In the excitement some one pushed the organist and a physician and she was badly hurt and a physician was summoned. Her injuries will prevent her singing for some time.

The congregation is now in a decided factional fight and it is not improbable that the row which broke up the meeting will be carried into the courts.

PROPOSED TO FIFTEEN.

Man Nabbed by Police While Making Offer of Marriage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LACROSSE, Wis., Sept. 19.—He had proposed to 14 women and was on his knees in the street confessing ardent love to the fifteenth when the police took him in to have his sanity examined.

He gave the name of James J. Sullivan, but where he hails from is a mystery. He appeared Sunday and asked the first girl he met to marry him. "No," did not discourage him. He kept on proposing to every woman he met. He was not particular about beauty or status of the woman. Five who turned him down were already married. When the police started after him his record was only 11, but he ran it up to 15 before he was taken in.

SEES RAILROAD MEN.

Senator Elkins Preparing for Action on Rate Legislation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia is in New York and has been in consulting with various railroad and business men on the subject of railroad and tariff legislation to be considered by Congress in the coming session.

As chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, Mr. Elkins will have charge of all railroad legislation in the Senate. He predicts that a rate regulation bill will pass this winter, but feels that a prolonged and bitter fight will ensue when the subject of tariff revision is considered.

LOST LOVE WITH MONEY.

Pittsburg Woman, 40, Has Sweetheart, 21, Arrested—Breaks Engagement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 19.—Freddie Patterson of McKeesport, a bright young man of 21 years, is in serious trouble here. He was today held under $500 bail, charged with larceny.

He is alleged to have "touched" his aged sweetheart, twice his age, for $100 last week. Mrs. Ella Doyle of 32 Ruse street, Pittsburg, who confesses to more than 40 years and to having had a love of love for Freddie, made the complaint. She has canceled the engagement, which had existed, and says Freddie will have to go into hock.

GOLD WATCH FROM WITTE.

Secret Service Officer Galleher Rewarded for Attending Russian.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Albert Galleher, a Government secret service man who was assigned to the duty of guarding Mr. Witte during the peace commission, received today from him a fine gold watch suitably inscribed. The watch was accompanied by an autograph letter from Mr. Witte, commending the talents of Galleher in his business.

The Result of a Careful Study Revealed.

Our most important achievement in clothes-craft, both in making and style, is a reflex of genius and skill. It is the embodiment of those principles which from the outset stamped themselves upon the destiny of our Ready-for-Service Clothes.

Our fashionable clothes are the strongest competitors that high-class tailors have, and at a saving of one-third. They illustrate the evolution of a single determined aspiration, that of perfecting ready clothes and maintaining a standard such that would meet the requirements of the most exacting dresser.

We conform closer and closer to this standard which permits only of superior workmanship, and have reached the pinnacle of success—an assurance of perfectly fitting garments, dependable materials and highest skill in hand tailoring.

CHAPLAIN, GREAT HONOR FOR RYAN

Assignment of Priest to Financier's Home by Pope Rare Instance.

ST. L. PRIEST EXPLAINS

Signal Honor Conferred for New Yorker's Gifts to Church.

Great interest has been taken in St. Louis Catholic circles over the appointment by Pope Pius X of the Rev. Father White as Chaplain for Thomas F. Ryan. Members of the Catholic clergy say that the appointment is a signal honor for the great financier.

Father Joseph Garvey, S. J., of St. Louis University, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch, Monday, said: "During the Middle Ages in feudal kingdoms the custom of the nobles having private oratories and chaplains was widely prevalent. When these nobles began abusing the privilege by providing their chaplains and leading dissipated lives the custom was gradually abolished.

For Unusual Work.

"At the present day there are many old families, however, especially in France and Italy, who are still allowed to retain this privilege by special permission of the Pope for some meritorious service to the faith."

"Since in America there is no aristocracy, so called, the Vatican was not inclined to bestow such a distinction in rare instances it has been done, not because of the wealth of the recipient but because of some deed of generosity or other unusual work."

The honor was conferred on Thomas F. Ryan, not because of his millions but because of his gifts to Catholic churches and his support in the name of his wife. These gifts are said to aggregate close to half a million dollars.

A cathedral in Wheeling has just been erected, the donation of Mrs. Ryan. It is valued at $20,000. Georgetown University, at Washington, has received $300,000 from the Ryan family."

Oratory in Home.

Father White will soon take up his duties as chaplain in St. Louis, N. Y., where Mr. Ryan has a summer home. There is a private chapel at the St. Louis which the Pope has given special permission to be used for saying mass and the exposing of the Blessed Sacrament.

Father White will be the pastor of this miniature church for the Ryan family and their guests. Mr. Ryan is going with them in their house at No. 40 Fifth avenue, New York, the Ryans have a private oratory which differs from a chapel in that mass cannot be said in it without special permission from the Archbishop.

FALL OPENING SALE

ASK any woman, who has seen the various opening displays in St. Louis, what store, to her belief, is entitled to the distinction of being the leading fashion mart, and she will undoubtedly say "Grand-Leader." We have been overwhelmed with compliments, and our buyers deserve considerable credit. Every department is showing very extensive varieties of the moderate priced as well as costly merchandise. You will find nowhere else in St. Louis such magnificent Gowns, Suits, Wraps, Waists, Lace Robes, Laces, Silks, etc., etc., as we are showing. Besides, in every instance we quote a price that you cannot duplicate, due to the fact that we do our own importing through our established agencies.

IN order to start Fall buying with great enthusiasm, we are offering exceptional values, and judging by the great crowds that thronged every department on Monday, this feature is greatly appreciated. We propose that tomorrow shall be a repetition of Monday's great activity, and expect crowds that will make us wish that our new building was ready so we could give them better service and better accommodations. We particularly call your attention to the exceptional values that we offer until 12 o'clock Wednesday. You can save one-half and more.

Women's Swiss Handkerchiefs

How Accident Occurred on Car and Man Killed

FRANK

PUTS BLAME ON DRIVER

Railway Manager Says He Turned Horse to Meet Car
Instead of Other Way.

One man is dead and one is seriously injured as a result of the overcrowding of St. Louis street cars, forcing passengers to ride on steps and cling to handrails.

The death of one and the injury to the other is due to the very great overcrowding of the cars, which is usual during the rush hours, morning and evening, when men and women even hang onto the platforms almost by their eyelashes, after no more can get inside, and men even stand on the bumpers.

The body of a man supposed to be Frank J. Shelley, but who has not been identified, is at the morgue and Oscar Buckner, a student at Christian Brothers' College, is under treatment for a broken right arm.

Both were struck by the shaft of a coal wagon as they were riding on the step of an Easton avenue car Monday evening.

The accident occurred on Easton avenue near Vandeventer avenue. The two men had boarded the car down town. The car was jammed, inside and out, and the only place they could get standing room was on the step. They stood there, clinging to the hand rails to keep from falling off.

Coal Wagon at Curb.

Near Vandeventer avenue a coal wagon was backed against the curb. The driver, thinking that the extra width of the street at that point would permit the cars to pass, did not swing his horse around in the direction the cars were going.

Wagon Tongue Struck Two.

As the car sped past the end of the wagon shaft scraped the side. The two men on the step, appreciating their danger, tried to crowd back on the platform far enough to escape the wagon tongue, but they were packed so closely together on the platform that they could not do so.

The end of the shaft struck the unidentified man in the stomach and knocked him from the car. The car was stopped and passengers picked him up and carried him to the office of a physician near by, but an examination showed that life was extinct. The body was taken to the morgue.

Buckner's right arm was fractured at the wrist. After he had received treatment he was taken to the Christian Brothers' College.

In the pocket of the dead man was found a letter addressed to Frank J. Shelley, 1215 E. St. Louis. It was from Rosa Maxwell, but the postmark could not be deciphered. Other papers in his pocket bore the address 1617 Washington avenue.

Manager Blames Driver.

Inquiry Tuesday showed that the man is not known at that address, and nobody who has seen the body has been able to identify it. It is that of a man of about 25 years.

General Manager Robert McCulloch of the United Railways said Tuesday: "The car was not so full that the men could not have gone inside. Our conductor and motorman have instructions to prevent passengers from riding on the steps, but some persons like to ride there and do so in spite of the efforts of employees to prevent them, and the practice is fruitful of quarrels between employees and passengers."

"This accident was due to the teamster turning his horse to face in the direction from which the cars approached. Three or four cars were delayed by his refusal to move his horse, he insisting that the cars could get by."

When an attempt was made to get the teamster behind the head of his horse away from the car, but it shifted its position enough to cause the shaft to strike the men on the step. The accident would not have occurred if the horse had been facing the other way."

MANUFACTURERS' BANQUET.

A banquet with five speeches and an election of officers to follow will be features of the annual meeting of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association at the Planters' Hotel Tuesday evening.

Randolph S. Laughlin will discuss "Reciprocity." P. N. Hanson's subject will be "The Interstate Commerce Commission and Government Supervision of Railroads." Former Attorney-General E. S. Crow will give his views on "The Free Bridge and the Existing Bridge Arbitration." The Manufacturing Interests of St. Louis will be discussed by Anthony B. Itiner, and the Foreign Trade will be the subject of James Arbuckle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 18.—Passengers who arrived in Los Angeles over the Southern Pacific from the north tell of an accommodating conductor who disregarded train schedules, disregarding the time card and usurped the rights of the dispatcher, but who by so doing earned the everlasting gratitude of a woman who had lost all her money and regained it through his act.

It was just south of Red Bluff, on the passenger train bound from Portland to San Francisco, that a sickly-looking woman, traveling with no escort, excepting her 8-year-old daughter, rushed up to the brakeman and hysterically informed him she had lost her purse out of the window.

"It contained $300," she said, "all the money we have on earth. I am going to Sacramento to join my husband. We have been having hard luck and this loss will ruin us. Please stop the train."

But the brakeman had no authority in the matter, and by the time the conductor was found the train had run six miles past the point where the purse was lost.

The conductor knew he had no orders to stop the train—he knew he had most positive orders not to stop "for trivial matters." But to his mind the loss of $300 to a weak woman and the hushing of that woman's tears was no trivial matter, so he backed the car and 900 people six miles, delayed the train half an hour while the woman, herself and the brakeman hunted along the track, and she was the recipient of much gratitude when the lost purse was found. Not a passenger complained of the delay.

BANISHED FOR "DOPING" HORSE

Owner's Entries Barred, Trainer's License Cancelled at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—For the alleged using of "dope" on the racehorse Bar le Duc, last week, the stewards of the Gravesend track will refuse the entries of G. E. Hall's horses in the future, and they also canceled the license of Trainer Frank Williams, who had charge of the horse.

This is as far as the authority of the stewards can extend. They then referred the case to the Jockey Club stewards for final decision.

Bar le Duc, if the "dope" was used on him as alleged, certainly ran a bad race. He started in the fifth Friday which was won by Right Royal. Throughout Bar le Duc held down last place in a conspicuous manner. He showed no traces of either speed or dope.

It was his general appearance that caused the officials to suspect. He had all the earmarks of a "doped" horse. He sweated profusely and seemed to be eager to run. Last year this horse, after many losses, won a sensational race at Long Island when he played off against the champion of the track.

On that occasion the report was prevalent that "dope" had been used.

ANOTHER TOOK GOODS.

According to William Porter, a negro, when he went to move the furniture from the home of Mrs. Victor Morris, 511 Poplar street, Monday, he was ordered from his moving van by the woman's husband. Then Morris, he says, jumped on the van, which was packed with household goods, and drove away.

Mrs. Morris says she and her husband did not agree and that she was moving against her husband's will. Porter requested the police to recover his van.

JOHN SPENCER TURNER DEAD.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—John Spencer Turner, director and Vice-President of the United States Cotton Duck Corporation and head of the J. Spencer Turner Co. of this city, died of apoplexy yesterday at Caldwell, N. J. Mr. Turner was 75 years old and one of the best known men in the cotton duck trade. He was instrumental in organizing the so-called Cotton Duck Trust.

OFFER A LEVEE FOR $36,000

Belleville Men Want to Protect East St. Louis From Floods.

There is much comment in East St. Louis on a proposition submitted to the City Council Monday afternoon by Edward L. Thomas, George K. Thomas and John L. Taylor of Belleville for the construction of a levee for the protection of the city.

The proposition is to build a levee 2½ feet higher than the high-water mark of 1904 to be 24 feet wide at the top, from the Baltimore and Ohio embankment on the north to the Illinois Central on the south, from the Illinois Central to the Conlogue and from the B. & O. to the river, the city to procure the right of way, grant a perpetual franchise for a railroad on top of the levee and pay 15 cents a cubic yard for the 600,000 cubic yards estimated to be required.

It is stipulated that bluff ground shall be used and the men making the proposition are to have the contract for changing the course of Cassia Creek if it is later decided to do this.

The two Thomases and Taylor are the men who propose to connect St. Louis and East St. Louis with a tunnel under the river.

O'FALLON PITCHER A WONDER.

H. Walters, pitcher of the Greys of O'Fallon, Ill., has made a remarkable record during the present baseball season. Out of 15 games that he has pitched the team has won 11. He held the Covingtons of St. Louis down to one hit and won the game himself by batting in the only run, the score being 1 to 0. He allowed the Arcades of St. Louis only four hits and they were shut out by the score of 8 to 0. The Paste of St. Louis got but one single and one scratch hit and were defeated by 3 to 0. The Paste of St. Louis, team, champion of Clinton County, could not make a hit off of him and were shut out by the score of 7 to 0. He is 19 years old, but looks much younger.

USED SAW TO ROB.

Charles Weiner, aged 22 years, of 2643 Hickory street, has confessed to the police to robbing the home of M. Werthmuller, 267 Hickory street, and Schmidt's Dairy Co.'s office at 516 Hickory street. He stated that he spent $250 he secured in June, 1904, at the dairy company's office on the Pike at the World's Fair. He entered the home of Werthmuller by boring a hole through the floor and removing a section of it.

He found a tin box containing $250. He hid the box, but it was found later. He entered the dairy company's office in a similar method.

FLEES FROM ALTAR; ELOPES ON TRAIN

Montana Girl Deserts Suitor in Church Waiting for the Ceremony.

RUSHES TO SWEETHEART

Couple Scramble on Cars and Are Wedded by Minister Passenger.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. 19.—Miss Maud Gruwell, daughter of State Senator C. O. Gruwell, deserted her promised husband at the altar here today and five minutes later eloped with Everett B. Ferris to whom she was married by a clergyman on the train as they went to Livingston.

As the train pulled out the girl's parents, Ellis Judd of Chamute, Kan., the deserted suitor, and members of the broken bridal party rushed to the depot from the church in time to see the elopers waving handkerchiefs at them from the car window.

Mr. Judd, who is prominent in his home town, came here several days ago to marry Miss Gruwell, who had been his sweetheart for several years, but whom he had not seen for more than a year. Everything was in readiness for the wedding this morning, the guests were in the church and the bridegroom to be was waiting in the vestibule.

"Tell them I will be ready in a minute," said Miss Gruwell, addressing the bridesmaids. Then she slipped out of the parsonage, which adjoins the church.

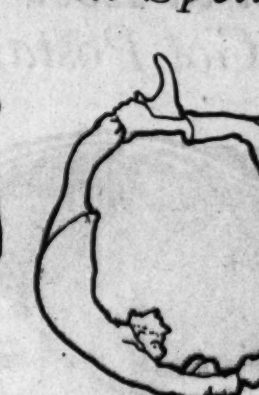

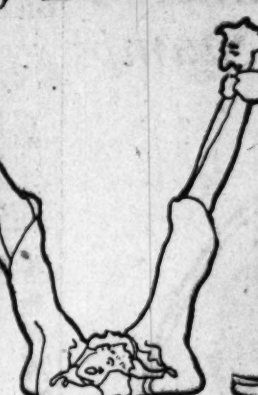

Dashing across the street she entered a dry goods store where Ferris is a clerk.

"I can't and won't marry Mr. Judd," she gasped.

"Even if he is rich," and she flung her arms around Ferris.

Ferris, who had long wooed the girl, who is pretty and wealthy in her own right, grasped the opportunity and putting on his hat, he seized the young woman, arrayed in all her bridal finery and rushed for the Northern Pacific train which was just pulling out. The couple scrambled on to the last car amid the cheering of the passengers.

DID WOMAN GIVE POISONED CANDY?

Litchfield Girl Ill After Eating Sweets, and Donor Missing.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
LITCHFIELD, Ill., Sept. 18.—Miss Mamie Spies lies in a precarious condition at the home of Mrs. John O'Brien, 321 South Lincoln street, after eating nine pieces of cheap mixed candy, which she says was given to her by a woman.

Whether or not the condition of the girl is the result of candy containing poison, the physician refuses to say.

Miss Spies says a woman gave her the candy, but none of the candy can be found and the accused woman has suddenly moved from the city, not giving her destination.

Miss Spies, who is 16 years old and a servant, came to Litchfield from Peoria last spring. Monday she was sent to a near-by meat market for the evening meal. On her way home, she says, a woman offered her candy from a sack.

She took nine pieces and ate them. Upon reaching home she became ill and then unconscious.

Miss Spies is young and pretty. Her mother lives in Peoria and her father works in Centralia. Both are attending her.

WHAT DID M'CALL PAY $100,000 FOR?

N. Y. Life President Will Be Asked About Amount Sent to Albany.

LEGISLATORS ANNOYED

Members State Assembly Fear Insurance Exposures—Roosevelt and Parker Are Mumm.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Determined steps are being taken by counsel to the committee to get at all the secrets of the $100,000 payment made by President McCall of New York to Andrew Hamilton, an Albany lawyer and alleged lobbyist.

Subpoenas were served upon a number of officers of the New York State National Bank of Albany, in which Hamilton deposited the two checks for $50,000 and $50,000 the day after he received them, on March 2, 1935.

The bank officers were notified to produce before the committee all of the books and other records concerning Hamilton's account in the bank. If any considerable portion of the $100,000 was withdrawn by himself or on orders to "cash" this will be regarded as certain proof that the payment to Hamilton had nothing whatever to do with the "Home Office Annex" account to which it was charged in the books of the company, or to the purchase of property which the company made at the corner of Worth and Center streets, in this city.

One of the employees of the company testified that he understood the $100,000 was paid to Hamilton in connection with the real estate purchase. Why Hamilton should have deposited in an Albany bank money intended for the payment of property bought in this city he could not explain, neither could George W. Perkins.

The highest bank records will be scrutinized to see if Hamilton had relations of any sort with the other insurance companies. Perkins, who is familiar with the inside workings of the big insurance companies, said today that "Judge" Hamilton was not known to him as the Albany agent of the New York Life, but as the Albany agent of the Equitable and the Mutual, the three big companies, and that what one wanted done all three wanted.

Ordinarily this prudence, he said, would lead them to deal with one man instead of three.

Mr. Hughes will call on the New York Life for every document and book bearing on the "Home Office Annex Account" and to trace to its origin every entry it contains.

Not Through With Perkins.

Mr. Hughes has not yet finished with George W. Perkins as a witness. When he gets through with him the plan is to put the officers of the Albany Bank on the stand and then call President McCall and give him a chance to tell what he will about the $100,000 mystery.

Mr. Hughes has received no information from President McCall of a willingness on his part to summon Hamilton back to this country so that he can go on the stand and tell why the $100,000 was given to him and what he did with it.

William Nelson Cromwell is reported to have in his possession all the documents bearing upon the $100,000 "yellow dog fund" of the Equitable Life, but being a lawyer, cannot be compelled to testify, because of the confidential relations of lawyer and client.

The bulk of the $100,000 went to political contribution, and a large sum for the purchase of 57 shares of Equitable Life stock held by persons who threatened legal proceedings. These 57 shares were put with the Mercantile Trust as collateral for the "loan" of $100,000.

When Jordan, McIntyre and Alexander were called upon to make good the $200,000, they sold the 57 shares to Thomas P. Ryan for approximately one-half of the $100,000, the necessary for the three men to raise in cash the remaining $100,000.

Mr. Ryan has used these 57 shares of stock to qualify some of the directors nominated by the Trust, Cleveland, O'Brien and Westinghouse. The directors so qualified are practically dummy directors.

"Window Dressing" Illegal.

That the "dummy" sale and purchase of $200,000 of Mercantile Trust bonds made by George W. Perkins on behalf of the New York Life to George W. Perkins on behalf of J. P. Morgan & Co., for the purpose of "window dressing" the New York Life's report to the State insurance department was absolutely parallel to the offense which resulted in the conviction of Whitaker Wright, the English financier, in London, on Jan. 11, 1904, is admitted by corporation lawyers.

Whitaker Wright was arrested in New York City and held in Ludlow Street Jail. He retained Samuel Untermyer to fight the extradition proceedings brought against him by the English Government. The case was carried to the United States Supreme Court, which finally decided that the "window dressing" was the making of a false or deceptive report by a corporation was a crime under the laws of New York State, and was proper for him to be extradited.

In view of the ruling of the United States Supreme Court, there is much curiosity over the possibility of the action by the authorities on Mr. Perkins' admissions.

DEMOCRATS HAIL DOVE OF PEACE

Hold Harmony Meeting Tonight to Heal Old Wounds.

MULVIHILL, CHIEF WOOER

Kind Letter to Anti-Jefferson Club Gladly Greeted.

Har-mo-ny! Har-mo-ny! Kinney sits in Hawes' tepee, Butler shouts in ecstasy.

Har-mo-ny! Har-mo-ny! No one scrappily, all is happy Har-mo-ny!

Anyone can take a seismograph—earthquake recording machine, you know—to Suburban Garden tonight without fearing that it will get the slightest jar.

St. Louis Democrats are to hold a harmony meeting there, and the dove of peace will flutter over the grounds before the arrival of the 2000 or more party braves expected.

Not the Oyster Bay dove of peace, it should be explained. The St. Louis Democratic Club, which is running the harmony meeting, got the dove from Excelsior Commissioner Mulvihill.

Mulvihill's Hit.

President Colin A. Seip and leading members of the club, which, to say the least, was not called into being to help Mr. Mulvihill or Joseph W. Folk get control of the party machinery, today exhibited a letter signed by the Excelsior Commissioner. Their comment was singularly like the sentence which Andrew Carnegie wishes to have placed on his tombstone. They said:

"Untrusting efforts—party harmony—will meet success—fondest expectations—like the words on which the readers of the letter laid emphasis as they perused it over each other's shoulders."

The letter said that Mr. Mulvihill could not attend, but it did not leave the recipients in doubt that the man now regarded as the party leader in St. Louis will be their friend.

Har-mo-ny! Har-mo-ny! Wells and Simon now agree.

Har-mo-ny! Har-mo-ny! Blong takes Stewart home to tea.

Har-mo-ny! Har-mo-ny! All work better for the party Har-mo-ny!

Vaudeville and Politics.

The harmonizers hope to have Congressman Champ Clark as one of the evening's orators. They are sure of Senator W. J. Stone. Judge D. W. Shackelford, State Senator G. W. Humphrey, Frank M. Estes and Mr. Seip are also to make speeches.

Vaudeville is to be mingled with politics in the latest approved style for political meetings. Refreshments are promised.

Those in charge of the meeting are sure that the spirit of harmony will be so pervasive that Folk Democrats who pass the Arcade polling place on their way to the garden will lose the recollection of past unpleasantness when they meet there, and that candidates on last spring's city ticket will cheerfully greet the men whom they blamed the day after election for splitting the party vote and beating them.

FRIGHT ANNOYED WIFE.

She Says Husband's Injury Interrupted Her Household Work.

Mrs. Rose Scharpe filed a petition Tuesday for divorce from George A. Scharpe, who, she says, is now in Jacksonville, Ill. They were married in St. Charles Jan. 10, 1932, and her chief allegations are non-support and cruelty before their separation Sept. 5 last.

One of the details of her allegations is the charge that she had to stop her household work, while they were living at 2008 Lucas avenue, to bathe and dress wounds which he received in a fight. She asks the custody of their 18-month-old son, Frank.

and show anxiety. Several of them thought that the bill passed over the legislative documents to refresh their memories about specific measures upon which they were called to vote one way or the other about the time "Judge" Andrew Hamilton received checks aggregating $100,000, "by order of President McCall" of the New York Life for purposes which Vice-President Perkins could not explain.

There is very little in the accessible records of the bills passed which indicate the necessity for the expenditure of a large sum of money. Most of the bills that became law during the session of 1934 when the checks were drawn were unimportant except in perfecting the existing laws designed to secure the greatest protection to the insurance companies.

There was no agitation over insurance matters at that time and consequently little or no opposition to anything the companies demanded.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

Visitor's Jaw Fractured, It Is Thought, by Footpad.

With his jaw fractured and several severe head bruises, E. Hancock, aged 38, of Mississippi, lies in the alcoholic ward of the City Hospital. He was found on the sidewalk early Tuesday unconscious. According to the meager statement given by the injured man to the police, he was struck down by a highwayman.

Hancock is a cook and came to St. Louis on a visit. He had been stopping at the City Hotel on Fourteenth and Market streets.

Bryan Forgot the Democratic Primary Election in Nebraska.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 18.—William Jennings Bryan, after urging Democrats of the nation to attend the primaries, forgot to be present yesterday when the primaries of his own party were held.

LOST HER LIFE FOR DOG.

Little Girl Fell Into Cesspool After Canine.

An inquest was begun Tuesday into the death of Anna Keppler, the 10-year-old daughter of Herran Keppler Sr., who lost her life Monday evening at her home, 4811 Margaretta avenue, in an attempt to rescue her pet dog from a cesspool.

The child was missed during the afternoon and it was only after prolonged search that her body was discovered. The dog saved itself by climbing on the child's body, and it was rescued. The disappearance of the child, the search for her and the finding of her body caused a great deal of excitement in the sparsely settled neighborhood of Margaretta avenue, in the northwestern part of the city.

CULLOM BOOMED BY HIS FRIENDS

Illinois Senator, Who "Looks Like Lincoln," Told Can Have Another Term.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 19.—Senator Shelby M. Cullom who told things that pleased him greatly at a conference here today between himself and about 100 of his political friends, allies and supporters.

Nineteen counties in Central and Western Illinois were represented.
Many of those present told Senator Cullom that in their opinion he will be returned to the United States Senate without opposition.

The conference was the first of a series of similar gatherings that are to be held over the State in the interest of the man who looks like Lincoln.

Senator Cullom made a short speech in which he said that he will not be able to make an extensive campaign for the reason that he must return to Washington early in October, and that consequently he must depend upon his friends to get his claims and his record
before the people.

The meeting was held in the Leland auditorium and was open to the public.
The reports from the various counties were read.

appeared most flattering to Senator Cul-lom's candidacy.
Among the better-known politicians who participated in the conference were:
Congressman Zeno J. Rivers, Litchfield;
Judge George R. Cooper, Hillsboro;
United States Marshal John E. Ames,
Chicago; Judge Lemmon, Clinton; D.
W. Taylor, Litchfield; R. P. Bernard,
Mokoma; J. R. Rolston and W. H.
McKinney, Clinton; H. W. Kerr, Carlinville; Edward Greenleaf, Jacksonville; H. P. Rogers, Waverly; Internal Revenue Collector Smith, Dwight; E. E.
Mitchell, Centralia; M. D. King and
J. W. Stauffer, Pittsburg; United States Marshal C. P. Hitch, Paris; Former Representative Frank J. Heisl, Jacksonville, and Mr. Bancroft, Jacksonville.

SHRUM UNDER ARREST.

Accused of Aiding in Murder of Miss King Near Schell City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEVADA, Mo., Sept. 19.—Arthur Shrum, the young farmer arrested in Henry County yesterday, was brought here today for a preliminary hearing on the charge of aiding in the murder of Miss Allie King at Schell City, near here.

Miss King was found dead in bed at her home last week. Immediately after Shrum left home, which was near Miss King's, drove to Rich Hill, took a train to Kansas City and afterward went to Henry County.

MAN FELL 40 FEET.
Herman Albrecht, 48 years old, of 3283 Jasper Park, who was injured while at work on a grain elevator at Fruit Station, Ill., was said to be out of danger by the doctors at Alexian Brothers' Hospital, Tuesday. The man fell from a 40-foot ladder onto a pile of machinery, injuring his spine.

They Fell in Love While She Got Postage Stamps

LILLIAN M. GROSSE E. A. BUESCH

POSTAGE STAMP COST HER HEART

Miss Lillian M. Grosse Fell in Love With Obliging
Druggist.

A pretty romance is unraveled and the purchase of a two-cent postage stamp
will be recalled at the marriage Wednesday of Miss Lillian M. Grosse, daughter of Prof. J. A. Grosse of 2309 South Broadway, and E. A. Buesch, a druggist at 2313 South Broadway.

Mr. Buesch recently changed the location of his drug store to the South
Broadway address, and at that time
Miss Grosse resided across the street.
She often went to the store to purchase stamps and an acquaintance was formed. The druggist soon found himself infatuated with his pretty customer and the fondness for each other became mutual. She came to the store often and he called at her home. Their acquaintance grew to be more than friendly and recently they announced their engagement.

Rev. A. J. Kaub, a friend of the groom, braved the dangers of quarantine and fled from his home at Hammond, La., in the fever-stricken district and has arrived in St. Louis to perform the ceremony.

The marriage will take place at the home of the bride, E. A. Spaeth, who will be the best man. The only attendant, Miss Grosse is an exceptional beauty and has a charming personality.
After the ceremony the bride and groom will leave on an extensive tour of the East.

PENNY & GENTLES.

Opening Days Show Great Assortments
in All Lines.
Penny & Gentles have announced their opening days, Tuesday and Wednesday, in all departments. The cloak and suit department on the third floor has on display a complete assortment of women's and children's outer garments and suits, all built in harmony with the latest modes. In cut, style and fabric they are essentially of the hour. The suits comprise three-quarter lengths, bouffant waists and coats with wide flared skirts. A modestly elegant and comfortable. The coats include Vassar, pique and the long loose effects so fashionable this autumn.

Stunning Millinery.
The millinery buyer, just returned from his trip to the fashion centers abroad, has stocked this department with many stunning models. A mode-velvet hat with American beauty rose earrings and a wide brimmed hat with an exclusive model from Crozet. Another in the popular mushroom effect is in black velvet with a wide brim and a lace drapery. The assortment of ready-to-trim and ready-to-wear hats includes hats and hats and marabout neck pieces is unusually complete.

The first floor the dress goods section has all the latest weaves, including broadcloths, Venetians, serges and Panama cloth. All are much in demand and are to be found in the two most sought-after shades—plum and gray.

New Gray Suitings.
The new gray worsted suitings in mannish effects, the shadow checks, are much in evidence in silk and satin evening and street shades in crepe de chine, moire velours and satin plaid stripes.

The lace section has exclusive models in net robes, spangled robes, embrodered and applique net robes. The showing of baby Irish, rose point, Bruges Plauen, point Venice and Oriental laces is one of the most complete in St. Louis. The display of galleons, festoons, medallions and secular bands
is especially complete.

In the dress trimming department attention is attracted to the high novelties in colored spangled bands and medallion effects, embroidered vestings in Dresden colorings, chiffon and silk applique in French muffle gold.

One of the most popular varieties are the beaded chiffon appliques mixed with Japanese spangles. These trimmings are but a few in this complete department.

KOMURA HAS TYPHOID.

Physicians Attending Jan Peace Envoy
Finally Agree on Diagnosis.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Baron Kom-ura's physicians have finally agreed on a diagnosis of the Japanese peace envoy's malady. It is that he has typhoid fever.

But it is only a mild form, they add.
However, it will interfere with his going away Oct. 2.

WALTER COLLEGE REPORT.
The annual meeting of the Walter College Association was held Monday night in the hall of Evangelical Lutheran Trinity Church. J. H. Dreyer, acting vice-president, occupied the chair. The report of Prof. A. C. Benchord, the director, showed the past year to have been the banner one of the institution. The report of the treasurer,
H. Harms, also showed a gratifying condition.

BOY TRUANT SORRY.

Left to Watch Home, Wandered Away
and Was Arrested.

Little Lloyd Strebe of 2863A Forest Park boulevard has never played truant
in his life, yet he is in trouble under the compulsory education act and may have to answer to a charge of playing truant. His mother, Mrs. G. Strebe, went down town shopping Monday afternoon with his 10-year-old sister, Mildred, and left Lloyd at home from the Marquette School to look after the house. The 8-year-old boy became tired and lonely and wandered away from his post of duty, going as far as 2838 Lindell boulevard, where he stopped to get a drink of water from a well-faucet on the lawn, he says. But Mrs. R. J. Green, who lives there, thought Lloyd was trying to steal the brass faucet and had him arrested.

When he heard the boy's story Mrs.
Green refused to prosecute, but now the police say that they will cause Lloyd to be summoned to the Juvenile Court to answer to a charge of playing truant. His mother declares that never has he missed a day at school save when she kept him home.

Lloyd has been a pupil at the Marquette school for two years, and is now in room 18. His younger sister, Irene, also attends the Marquette, and both children are there Tuesday—but Lloyd is under a cloud of sorrow and humiliation. He is trembling at the thought of being taken to the Juvenile Court for an offense of which he is innocent.

JAPS AT SEATTLE.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 19.—H. W.
Denison and six other members of the Japanese peace mission arrived in Seattle at 11 o'clock last night.

The party will sail on the Dakota on Wednesday.

HERRERA AND HANLON

Sign Articles for Post at Los Angeles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—The Herrera-Hanlon match will take place
both men having signed the articles.
Fortifets of $500 are to be posted and a $1000 side bet will be deposited today.
The papers call for a meeting on Oct.
17 at the Pacific Athletic Club of Los Angeles, the combatants to weigh 133 pounds rinside and to receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts, to be divided

KIMMELL'S KANSAS RECORD WAS GOOD

Made Friends While Cashier of Arkansas City Bank; Became Erratic.

HOW HE WAS DISCOVERED

Told Fellow Prisoner His Story, Which Latter Repeated When Released.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 19.—George A. Kimmell came here in the spring of 1931 from Niles, Mich., where he had been assistant cashier of the First National Bank, and assumed the cashiership of the Farmers' State Bank here.

He made firm friends, was congenial and a "good mixer." He was very temperate in his habits and not extravagant in the least. He was an ordinary dresser, never had more than two business suits a year. His only hobby was horseback riding. He was a member of the Episcopal Church here and attended regularly. He boarded at the hotel all the time he was here.

His mother and sister visited him in March, 1933, and were his guests six weeks at the hotel. His most intimate friend here noticed Kimmell had grown erratic and nervous before his disappearance. He said once he "could not restrain himself." He complained of pain in the head and ear and was treated for it here.

When he left here for Topeka he was worried over township bonds he went to market. Matters had to be handled quickly and he was exasperated to find the State Treasurer at a ball game.

He left the bonds at State Superintendent's office with instructions to give them to the treasurer and have warrants forwarded to his bank here. Then he telephoned to a Kansas City bank to have $30,000 at the Midland there when he arrived. He got there all right and got the money and disappeared.

No shortage was found in accounts here. His private account was slightly overdrawn, but more than enough property was left to cover it. He was regarded here as a man of good business head.

Charles L. Brown, local Santa Fe attorney, who went to New York to identify Geo. A. Kimmell, the missing banker, today made public the story of his visit to White, supposed to be Kimmell.

According to the story told Mr. Brown by the supposed Kimmell, he was doped in Kansas City, on Wyandotte street, in a physician's office, and has never been rational since. Four men were in the party, and after he was doped he was left in charge of a physician, who kept him in Kansas City a week, took him later to St. Louis and Detroit.

Near Detroit, in a railroad wreck, Kimmell said his head was badly hurt, and the doctor disappeared. The man claiming to be Kimmell says he later went to New York, where he committed forgery and was sentenced to the Criminal Insane Asylum at Buffalo, and was transferred over a year ago to the Matamoras Asylum.

A man who had been confined at Matamoras, but had been discharged as cured, happened to see an Arkansas City paper in which it was stated that Kimmell was being taken in the Geo. A. Kimmell case, and remembered that an inmate had told him his name was Kimmell, and that he had lived here.

The paper was mailed to White, or Kimmell, and he at once wrote the insurance company, advising them not to pay the insurance policies.

WANTS A WORLD'S FAIR.

New Yorkers Planning for a Permanent Exposition on the Hudson.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Active work is going on in this city looking toward a permanent World's Fair, to be opened in 1940, in celebration of the discovery of the Hudson River. Offices have been opened in Manhattan and Peekskill for the promotion of the enterprise and options have been obtained on a large tract of land at Verplank's Point, on the east bank of the Hudson, near Peekskill, where it is proposed to locate the exposition.

With the return of Gov. Higgins from Europe, Sept. 22, it is expected the project will assume concrete form.

IF MAN WERE MADE FROM CHEWING GUM.

If man were made from chewing gum.

As say the Eskimos.

Imagination stretching some—

Ah, wouldn't he have woes?

Then wife'd pull his leg for true.

Or stick him on the wall.

And many other things would do.

His spirit proud to gall.

And if with woe he filled her cup.

Or any wish denied.

Why, she could simply wad him up

SOUGHT DEATH; WON'T TELL WHY

Man Who Swallowed Acid in Park Silent to Wife's Entreaties.

HIS WATCH IS MISSING

Son Begins Investigation of Disposal of Valuable Time-piece Father Wore.

At her husband's bedside in City Hospital Tuesday, Mrs. Julius S. Rehnitz, 1321 Arlington avenue, implored him to tell her why he had swallowed acid in Forest Park.

Rehnitz seemed deeply affected by his wife's entreaties, but remained silent. To his son, Alexander, and to Dr. Heine Marks he refused also to make known the nature of the poison he had taken.

Dr. Marks told the wife and son that the patient's condition was such that he could safely be removed to Missouri Baptist Sanitarium, and they set about to arrange for the transfer.

That the poison was taken deliberately to end life was shown by the note found in the half-conscious man's coat pocket as he lay on Sycamore lawn in the park.

The note read: "Whoever finds my body, I implore with my dying breath that you take it to my home, 1321 Arlington avenue. Do not send it to the morgue."

Watch Is Missing. At the hospital this morning Alexander Rehnitz made inquiry about his father's personal property and was told that he had had no watch when he was received at the hospital. As he had a valuable gold watch when he left home, the son commenced an investigation.

Rehnitz was picked up a minute after swallowing the acid by George Oster, a park watchman. The watchman summoned Mounted Patrolman Hutton, and he was carried to Dr. E. A. Fabier's office, 617 North Euclid avenue.

The wife and son said that they knew of no business or other parties which might have caused his act, and Mrs. Rehnitz says that he left home Monday in a cheerful mood.

BEGGS FOR PRISON ROOF.

Octogenarian Told Police Judge He Had No Shelter.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 19.—Arthur De Camp, an octogenarian, was sentenced to the workhouse by Judge Fielder in the police court at his own request. He was arrested by Patrolman Murphy while trying to make a bed of newspapers in a vacant lot on Detroit street.

He was locked up on a vagrancy charge. In the police court his snow-white hair and patriarchal appearance won him favor in the eyes of the judge, who was about to discharge the prisoner, when the aged man begged to be sent to the workhouse.

"I'm 88 years old and without a place to lay my head," said the aged man. "Send me to the workhouse; your honor. It's the only way—the only way."

Judge Fielder gave him a sentence of 30 days and costs and 10 days, which will keep him in the workhouse until the first of next year.

CHINESE MINISTER SEES ROOSEVELT

Presents Foreign Under-Secretary to Imperial Government.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Sir Chen Tung Liang Cheng, the Chinese Minister to the American Legation in Hankow, recently returned to the Chinese Government, has been handed over to the residents of the provinces through which the line will pass.

These people, who have been so violently opposed to the building of railroads, will undertake to complete the line.

Sir Liang further declares that the Belgian concession, extending northward from Hankow to Peking and completing the projected trunk line from Canton to the capital, would in the end be taken back by China and operated by Chinese stockholders.

The Minister declared, however, the repeated assertions that western influences were being forced out in the interior of Japan, who, with the Imperial Government, will jointly undertake Chinese railway development.

As to what part American capital would play in such development, he was diplomatically evasive.

Sir Liang came to Oyster Bay, accompanied by Wang Tze Hsieh, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, the Imperial Government, who was introduced to the President.

Mr. Wang sent here as an envoy of the Chinese Government to the Portsmouth peace conference, in the event that China, as the most interested nation not directly engaged in the war, might be allowed representation at the conference. He was not permitted to attend the sessions, but remained in this country ready to give expert advice on Manchurian affairs.

The Chinese statement were arrayed in gorgeous robes of blue on their visit and created almost a sensation as they drove through the muddy streets of Oyster Bay to Sagamore Hill.

RAMSEY ANGRY
AT PERSONAL
INSINUATION

"Kindest to Say Nothing," Said
Gould, Asked About President's Claims.

LITTLE KANAWHA DEAL

"Got In, Let Him Get Out," Says Executive of Financier.

REASSERTS WILL WIN

But Wabash Head Refuses to Tell How He Is Going to Do It.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—An insinuation that Joseph Ramsey Jr. is mentally and physically in bad shape has stirred that man's fighting blood until hope of a reconciliation with George J.
Gould has gone glimmering.

There has been some hope of a settlement of their differences and Wabash security holders were striving to mend
when Ramsey's feelings were hurt.

When George J. Gould was asked to give his views on Mr. Ramsey's claims he shook his head.

"The kindest thing I can do," he said,
"is to say nothing."
This remark of Gould's, coming on top of the insinuation by others, is said to have angered Ramsey greatly.

Mr. Ramsey is busy fixing fences.
"Will you estimate your strength?"
he was asked.

"I would be a fool to do that," he replied. "I will not tell an enemy in advance where I am going to hit him. I feel that I have a good chance for re-election even if the Gould interest is against me."

Mr. Ramsey had nothing to say of the rumors that the Rockefeller, Pennsylvania or Vanderbilt interests are behind him, repeating that those who control the proxies of the independent holders would win.

"I am not going into this fight backed by anyone but Wabash stockholders," he again said.

He said he had not met Mr. Gould, did not expect to meet him, and had had no communication with him.

About Little Kanawha.
When asked what the Wabash would do with the Little Kanawha property Mr. Ramsey replied:

"This is a great, broad country, and the Wabash is not confined to one route to the seaboard. It might be a better or less expensive route by Little Kanawha, but another could undoubtedly be met. You know it is said that the Wabash could never get into Pittsburg, but she got in all right. I guess she can get out, too."

One thing was made certain today in relation to the fight for control of the Wabash between President Ramsey and George Gould, and that is that no clique
of financiers is back of Ramsey.

It is known that the Goulds own 40 per cent of Wabash securities, and in accordance with the custom of the family since Jay Gould's day, depend for control upon proxies or the purchase of open market of the other 11 per cent.
The fact that John D. Rockefeller Jr.
and John V. Gates, through holdings in Wheeling & Lake Erie and Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal, have a proxy val-ling power is well known, but Wall street does not think that they have
"fed up" with Ramsey.

There is, however, an independent holding of Wabash and allied securities on which Ramsey sets his hope of re-election at Toledo, Oct. 10.

Believes Independents Control.
Mr. Ramsey was asked whether it was true or not, in his opinion, that an actual majority of Wabash stock and debenture bonds was held by the Goulds and the Rockefeller interests. He replied:

"My request for proxies, it seems to me, indicates clearly enough where I believe control of the Wabash lies. I believe that a majority of the road's stock and debentures are in independent hands."

"Do you include the Rockefeller interests among the independent people?"
"I do not know what their holdings are nor do I know what proportion of the securities is held outright by the Goulds."

"Was any attempt made by the Board of Directors to restrict your powers as president?"

"None whatever."
"Have you then reassumed your duties as president of the Wabash?" What are your relations to Mr. Delano, the acting president?"

"Mr. Gould is not now acting president," Mr. Ramsey replied. "There is no acting president while I am here. I am sure the Board of Directors would not authorize that."

"You in your call for proxies that you were refused admission to the stock books of the company. As president, have you not the right to inspect those books?"

About Examining Books.
"It is perfectly true that as president I would have the right to go into the vaults and get those books, but having been refused admission to them I did not wish to force the question. I would not consider it dignified under the circumstances to force the matter to an issue. I would not precipitate a quarrel with those in the secretary's office by attempting to see the books when I was refused access to them."

"Will you say what it was, Mr. Ramsey, that prevented your examining the
books?"

"I do not care to answer that question."
"Are you, as president, attending to details of operation of the Wabash?"

"I have made no demand that these matters be brought to my attention.
However I am familiar in a general way with what is going on."

Mr. Ramsey was asked whether his success at the coming annual meeting would mean that Mr. Gould would be eliminated as a factor in the management of the Wabash. He replied: "I would do nothing detrimental to the interests of any of the owners of the property. I do not believe that merely because a majority is in control of a road that they have any right to ignore the interests of the rest of the owners of the property."

Evades Question as to Gould.
Asked if he would remove Mr. Gould as chairman of the board if he got a majority at the annual meeting, Mr.
Ramsey evaded the question, repeating his former assertion, and adding: "I believe that Mr. Gould's own interests in the Wabash would benefit by my being in control of the property."

Mr. Ramsey denied emphatically that the difference between himself and Mr.
Gould were due to any personal quarrel. He said that there had never been the slightest personal trouble between them and that the differences were due entirely to methods and policies.

"There was never any dissatisfaction on the part of Mr. Gould with the Wabash-Pittsburg terminal plans," Mr.
Ramsey said. "It was only on questions of methods and policies that we disagreed. Mr. Gould, in fact, frequently commended the Pittsburg plans."

MINERS VOTE NO.
Machine Men at Four Illinois Mines Reject Mitchell's Advice.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 19.—Despite the advice given them by President John Mitchell, the chain machine men of the unions at Virgil, Thayer, Diverson and Auburn have voted against a return to work. The ballot was 21 to 16.

It means that the mines at the four places named will remain shut down and 1800 men will continue out of work.

JUDGE TRACY
MAKING WAR
ON MASHERS

"I Will Do All I Can to Eliminate Them From Community," He Says.

ARE OF THREE CLASSES

"The High-Collar Boy With the Cigarette Annoying, but Not Dangerous.

MASHERS ARE NUMEROUS

The Dangerous Ones, Says
Judge, Are Apparently Moral Degenerates.

"If I can possibly do it I will eliminate the masher from the community."
Judge Daniel O'Connell Tracy of City Hall Police Court reiterated today his ultimatum against the mashing fraternity.

Yesterday Judge Tracy fined Roy Parks $200 for hugging and kissing Miss Matilda Dunford, a telephone operator, on the street. Ten days ago he fined a Union Station masher $200.

"The masher is divided into" three classes," continued Judge Tracy to the Post-Dispatch. "The first class is made up of the young dudes who make their appearance at noon on Broadway. They like to annoy the girls by making 'gogood' eyes. They are perfectly harmless as they have no vicious motives. They are more amusing than dangerous."

"I have reference to the high-collar boy who gobbles his lunch, pushes a cigarette into his face and saunters forth on the busy thoroughfare giving the girls a treat. He has no evil intent. He just wants to tease and act silly and he succeeds admirably in both.

The police can do little with him as his victims never wish to prosecute.
They are inclined to sympathize with him rather than despise him. An indignant look is usually the severest punishment he receives.

Conceded Wretches.
"The second class includes the conceded wretch who believes that all women are made for his use. He is 'stuck on himself' and thinks he is a 'killer.' He picks out his victim, follows her or the streets, makes insulting remarks, takes advantage of a woman's timidity and compels her against her will to accept his disgusting attention."

"He approaches a woman after following her for several blocks, and in a stare voice says, 'I beg your pardon, but aren't you Mrs. So and So?' Sometimes he is real bold and says, 'If you don't mind, I'll just walk along with you.' Even after his victim has resented his intrusion he persists in his annoying pastime until a policeman comes in sight and then he sneaks off like the cat that he is."

"The third class is composed exclusively of the moral degenerate who attacks women under evil intent. He works under cover of darkness, and thereafter the other two classes work mostly in the daytime. He attacks women, girls and even children.
He is a most vicious character, one which a law cannot deal too severely with."

Most Dangerous of Mashers.
"He skulks about deserted places and pounces upon his prey much after the fashion of robbers, though he hasn't the nerve to attack a man. He is the most dangerous of all mashers. He is a disease more than a man. He is a psychological study. He stops at nothing. His designs upon women are the most degrading and revolting. If he were a negro in the South he would be lynched on general principles."

"The numerical strength of the mashers in St. Louis is a great deal larger than people suspect, and the reason that there are not more of them punished is that nine out of ten victims are too timid to appear in court against them. It is safe to say that only one out of twenty cases is ever reported."

"I have within the last six months
been the recipient of no less than 30 letters from ladies who claim to have been insulted on the street. They want to know why the police do not rid the city of this menace. It is impossible for an officer to distinguish a masher from anyone else. It is true that mashers frequently congregate on street corners, but when ordered to move on they make excuses. They claim they are waiting for a street car or that they have an appointment with someone."

Idiotic and Effeminate.
"There are no particular characteristics about a masher's appearance. It is usually in his manner that one sees the signs of degeneracy. I cannot remember a single instance of a person charged with mashing looking me square in the face while telling his story."

"He casts his glances about the courtroom and at the floor, but never at the judge. He hedges and hesitates in his speech and he squirms about in his chair uneasily. He has not the courage of a man. He has an idiotic expression and effeminate actions."

The only St. Louis Newspaper with the Associated Press day dispatches.

Some of the numerous Indiana authors may now organize a bank.

With a bridge arbitrary even a score of railroads cannot take care of 1,000,000 people.

Perhaps rich corporations contributed to Mr.
Roosevelt's campaign fund "unbeknownst" to him.

Mrs. Partington's "Blessed are the uses of advertisements" is suggestive in connection with the Lesan scheme.

NOW IS THE ACCEPTED TIME.

The St. Louis railroads ought to join heartily in a plan of advertising St. Louis and St. Louis territory such as that which gained for Mr. Lesan the Post-Dispatch prize of $500 for the best population-promoting suggestion. The southwestern roads have been vigorously advertising the Southwest for the purpose of attracting immigration and investment and their work has been fruitful of good results.

Why should not the railroads and the business men join hands in this matter and organize a strong bureau to promote the development of the Southwest, with St. Louis as the gateway and commercial metropolis?

No section of the country promises such rich results from development as the Southwest. There is more good new land in this section than in any other.
Its resources are boundless and are now attracting thousands. The Southwest will show more development than any other section of the country in the next 20 years, without special promotion, but special promotion will hasten the process, and if the special promotion is directed from St. Louis and is identified with St. Louis, this city will reap the greatest benefit. St. Louis will grow with the Southwest; in fact, with the development of the Mississippi Valley; but St. Louis should lead and direct the valley's progress as its metropolis and commercial center. St. Louis must take the head of the column.

Organized, harmonious work of St. Louis now will fix the city's destiny. Do it now.

"This ain't prize corn; this is just Missouri corn," is a saying that is becoming common. The world should know more of Missouri corn lands.

TOPSY-TURVY.

Co-education is opposed by many because it tends to exclude men from the college and transform it into a "female seminary."

Dr. Angell goes farther. He says that "The aggregate number of women, nearly all pursuing the course of the arts, is so rapidly increasing that the question is suggested, whether the old-fashioned liberal training is largely to be monopolized by them."

Culture for women, special business training for men—that is what Dr. Angell appears to mean.

That there is such a tendency nobody can doubt.
But at this time its strength cannot be measured.
The demand that the boy "get through quickly," that he may go to work, is having a profound influence on educators. How far it will alter the education of men is yet to be ascertained. On the other hand, college women adhere to the humanities.
They want culture, not special information or skill.

This will be turning the tables. Hitherto women have been specialists, being restricted to child bearing and housekeeping. Men have had the culture, their minds have been broadened by the severest discipline in humane studies.

Cory's fancy may not be so very fantastic. When woman has the culture and the man has no outlook
beyond the narrow limits of his chosen drudgery,
why should not women rule the roost?

In the fur trade St. Louis has all other places
"skinned a mile."

ARTFUL DODGING.

The story drawn from Edmund T. Randolph, Treasurer of the New York Life Insurance Co., has a serious aspect, but most readers will prefer the other side of it, where a laugh will be found.

Mr. Randolph did his best to evade the issue, but was finally forced to admit that the company sold $800,000 of International Mercantile Marine stock on Dec. 31, 1903, and bought the stuff Jan. 2, 1904. He was, moreover, forced to admit that the object of this was that the company's officers might be able to tell the Superintendent of Insurance that they held only $3,290,000 of those securities.

The doings of high financiers on the day before report day, and the day after, thus appear to be full of dramatic, if not moral, interest.

It has long been observed that among people to whom the law is an obstacle or annoyance, dodging is cultivated as a practical art. The artful dodger is known in fiction, police courts and within the hospitable four walls of structures designed by the State for the entertainment of persons who have not a good opinion of law and have dodged it once too often.

But among high financiers who stoop not to the graceless conduct of these dodgers, dodging is a matter of bookkeeping. Bookkeeping is a straightforward, honest, lawful art. A man who is master of it can artfully dodge the law without compromising the profits. And when the story comes out under pressure he is sure to be treated with the distinguished consideration due men who do, with dignity and decency by wholesale what, if done vulgarly and by retail, would invite the severest censures of justice.

The world is busier now than it has ever been since the creation of man. It is so busy that millions know little of the advantages of any city or place beyond their own horizon, no matter what they may be. The millions who did not visit the World's Fair know little or nothing of St. Louis.
They must be reached and taught what we know
and what the World's Fair visitors learned.

CLUBS VS. SALOONS.

The substitution of clubs for saloons as a result of the Sunday closing, which the records of the courts indicate is taking place, is not reassuring.

Doubtless some of the new clubs which have come into existence recently have a legitimate basis.
Men of small means have as much right and reason to have clubs where they may meet, eat, drink and be sociable, as men of large means. But undoubtedly a large percentage of the clubs is composed of saloons thinly disguised as clubs. They are sham clubs, organized by the saloon keeper to evade the Sunday law.

Neither government nor morality is subserved by the substitution. When saloons are turned into clubs the State and city lose the revenue of the saloon licenses and police regulation ceases. The club is independent of licenses and regulation.

When saloons which pay licenses and are subject to strict police regulation close and drinking clubs, which pay no license except the federal tax
and are not subject to police regulation, keep open, Sunday law enforcement becomes a farce. The situation illustrates one phase of the folly of prohibitory legislation.

If women are even driving the males out of the universities, how much longer can men be kept out of the kitchen? Recent cartoons in the Post-Dispatch may become as truthful as they have been comic.

TROUBLE WITH CANADA.

Several American fishing boats which have crossed the boundary line and cast their nets in Canadian waters have been fired upon by the insolent naval power of Great Britain.

What is the President doing about this? What has Secretary Root done?

The Canadians plead treaty rights in justification of their outrageous conduct. It is true that American vessels must not, by treaty, go beyond the line to get fish. That is the law. But these Canadians should be taught that Americans must be treated politely at all times, in all places, in all circumstances.
If they trespass upon Canadian territory, they should not be ordered to depart, much less should they be fired upon. The King's officer should politely inform them that they were exceeding the limit of treaty and law and ask them to go away.

It is very unfortunate that by a treaty negotiated early in the nineteenth century neither power may keep large war vessels in the Great Lakes. We need today a dozen battleships in Erie and as many more in Ontario. The Canadians must be taught a lesson they will not soon forget, if it takes all the revenues to build battleships.

Bring out the "big stick."

If the birthrate is alarmingly decreasing in Pittsburg, which has been so enriched by the high tariff, President Roosevelt should at once investigate.
If high tariffs do not prevent race suicide, we may presently see the President an active free trader.

DECLINE OF IOWA'S POPULATION.

The decline of population in Iowa revealed by the State census of 1905 causes great alarm among the Iowans.

The loss is 15,000 in five years. This is entirely in the farming population, cities over 5000 having gained 77,000. The loss in the smaller towns and on the farms is 92,000.

Some of this is attributed to the emigration to Canada, where the active encouragement by Government and the building of new railroads have combined to make the western provinces attractive.
But it is doubtful if all the lost Iowans have gone to Canada.

It Iowa had any great commercial centers there would be a different story to tell. It is an old-told tale that the farmer boy seeks opportunities in the great cities. Iowa boys, discouraged by the loneliness of farm life, start for the city, and they don't stop in large numbers in Burlington, Des Moines or Keokuk. They strike for Kansas City, St. Louis or Chicago.

This will probably account for the greater part of the loss. Iowa is a farming state. In no other industry has any great progress been made. And if it is reasonable to believe that the decline will continue until her industries are diversified by the establishment of manufacturing which can maintain themselves against the competition of the great cities of other states.

BOORISH MANNERS IN GOTHAM.

From the New York Evening Post.

It is now uncommon to see a youngster offer his seat in a car to a man because he is old. Much more frequent is the sight of a girl giving place to either man or woman. In all the emergencies of rapid transit it is the women who show up best. At hours when there are bustle and hurry there is among the men no giving way, no hand to help, no easing of conditions for those whom they ought never cease to deal with considerately. It is worse between man and man. Not the least courtesy, nothing but a growl or a shove comes from the merest unmeaning interference. Were Thackeray, some business man, to ride down the subway he would be driven to revise his gracious description of our manners.

Whatever they were in his day, they have now become choleric and rancorous. We need still another breakfast food—one that will take away maternal grouch.

LAST CALL.

From Judge.

Mary Jackowski came to the door to call her brother to supper.

"Michael Jackowski," she shrieked out, "Come in and eat yourself. Your mother she's on the table and your father, he's half 't' already."

JUST A MINUTE

TURN THE HOSE ON THEM.

In case they come to charivari you
Just after you are wed,
In deep embarrassment to see you
Crawl out of your warm bed,
The best way—'tis a plan unfailing,
But little care or water on them—
The tide of noise to stem
Is to arise in garments trailing
And turn the hose on them.

Because, you know, the "shivaree,"
Who is a thirsty sight,
Is always on the hunt for beer,
And can't endure the sight
Of water. Therefore if you'd run him
Far, far away, and shock and stun him,
And see him flee your yard,
Just turn a stream of water on him
And soak him good and hard.

NEW YORK EDITORIAL OPINION

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The World says: "Whitaker Wright was in error
when he congratulated our syndicators and promoters on the greater laxity of American than English law.

"It is not American law, but its enforcement, which is more lenient than the courts of England. The London court which sentenced Whitaker Wright to seven years' imprisonment for issuing a false statement to the stockholders of the London and Globe finance corporation, has no greater powers than the laws of New York.

"Wright committed suicide when his sentence was announced, and he had no 'diverted' one-tenth as much as the past few years' diversions of the big three insurance companies. The big hand of the English law stretched out across the Atlantic and extrajudicially Wright from New York, whither he had fled.

"The arm of American justice need reach no further than from the Criminal Court building in New York to Wall street to take in its grip men who have done much more than Wright, and who have confessed the doing it."

"What is to be done?" asks the American, in discussing the life insurance scandal. "The policy holders, unorganized and in many instances without votes in the company, are helpless if they work from within. But they are numbered by millions. Their states have laws which may be made effective and superintendents of insurance who may be forced to perform their duties. This is the course the policy holders should take.

"A national association of policy holders, with chapters in each state, can readily be organized and would be the most effective machine for the cleansing
of the insurance companies."

Timely is the Times in referring to "the abusing of citizenship" by foreigners. It says: "It is impossible not to have a certain sympathy with the unspeakable Turk in his refusal to recognize a certificate of American naturalization as a warrant for attacking against his rule on the part of certain Levant-ines, especially Armenians. It is quite notorious that our naturalization has been much abused by such pretenders to citizenship.

"Of course the real trouble is in our own courts. * * * The principle that fraud vitiates every transaction is applicable to the process of naturalization as to anything else. A necessary complement to our naturalization laws
is the provision of some procedure
where naturalization fraudulently obtained may be revoked. This would not be necessary if our judges fulfilled the plain intention of the naturalization laws and really dealt with every applicant for naturalization on its merits. But it is necessary now, to prevent us from taking against a foreign government, ground which is in equity and morals untenable."

IN WOMAN'S WORLD

WHEN ONE'S IN LOVE.

When a girl is in love she says:
Not "I could live my life with him," but "I could not live my life without him."

Not "He is perfect," but "I don't care whether he is perfect or not."
Not "He will be good to me," but "I will be good to him."

Not "He is worthy of me," but "Am I worthy of him?"

Not "I see much in him to admire," but "I see nothing in anyone else to admire."
Not "I believe him, because what he says is true," but "I believe him, because he says it."

Not "I could endure poverty with him," but "I could endure nothing without him."

KITTYBIANCA.

The girl stood on the burning deck
Whence all but her had fled.
She wouldn't leave until she got Her hat on straight, she said.

STYLES IN AFRICA.

(On the Borders of Pygmy Land.)
The women bore a hole in their top lip, and gradually increase this until it is able to inclose a disc of wood two and even three inches in diameter. A Mubira woman came to call on us whose disc measured 2 3/4 inches across. The size of the wood inserted proclaims the rank of the person. Peasants are only allowed to wear pieces of stick of the same dimensions as a match.

The weight of the wood causes the lip

to fall down over the mouth, and in order to eat it is necessary to lift up this shutter with one hand while the other conveys the food to the mouth. Frequently the lip breaks under the strain put upon it, in which case the disconnected ends are carried back and tied to the ear.

THE BURDOCK.

It is a thistle.
It is everywhere.
It lasts until October.
In Latin it is Arctium minus.
Its magenta flower heads are half an inch across.

It has two button names—beggars'
buck and cud button.
Cockle burr and cud burr are two of its common names.
Its coarse, branching leaves stand two
to five feet.
Its lowest leaves often attain a length of one foot.
Some children make clever dolls of the buds.

It is said to have crossed Europe with the conquering Romans.
In Japan people are said to make picturesque hedges of it.
It never gets rooted out of pastures,
as cattle dislike its sour juices.
Though the cattle hate it, they furnish it transportation on their tails and coats.

CREATING THE FASHIONS.

Interesting to every woman is Elizabeth Meredith's article in the October Cosmopolitan telling how the fashions and styles are created in Paris. The illustrations are scenes in the workrooms of the great men-dressmakers of the center of the world's fashion.

CASEY THE COP

He Finds Fault With Illinois Game Laws.

By Robert R. Pearson.

"OW," yelled Casey, the ladies' cop, as a man with a suit case and umbrella stepped on his foot in an endeavor to catch a car which was rounding the curve. Casey's other remarks in connection with the incident are prohibited by the police manual, and anyhow could not be printed in a newspaper.

"Just look at here, me bye," said the minion of the law to his friend the reporter, as he pulled a copy of the Illinois game laws from his vest hip pocket. "Whot shote does a man have tryin' to get a little game in Illinois since Chafe Collins, in Chicago, put a shote at all little games of chance?"

"Now, look here," and Casey pointed to section 47 on the card. "All Missouri min must show up $15.00 before they can take a little hunt for rabbits over Cahokia way. Cough up the coin and the season's open for killin' cotton tails the year 'round, even includin' the 17th of March (bad cess to the man that thots anything but shakes that day).

"Now, in huntin' there's one thing—
"Will it rain this afternoon?" repeated Casey to the lady who seemed rather apprehensive regarding her picture hat, fresh from the milliner's. "Shote's a matter bechune you and Bowie, for we cops are not allowed to mix up in federal matters.

"But, as I wor sayin', there is one thing a felly that goes huntin' must not overlook. Never believe in signs. If ye sees a sign sayin', 'No Huntin' Allowed,' forget it and kill anything ye can hit in a whisper.
"But there's a mane thing about takin' out yer license, and that is thot ye must know yerself. The felly whot gives the pasteboard asks more foolish questions than a tax collector. Ye has to tell how old ye are, how much gold ye have in yer teeth, the color of yer eyes and from whot county in Oireland ye came from.

"Sorry me cousin Tim would be if he got over the river with me license and tried to kill rabbits with a wattle, as we did on the ould sod."

"Say," said Casey as the reporter started for the office, "I see thot Judge Dan'l O'Connor Thray is back from Oireland. They tells me thot he did not kiss the blarney stone while he was over there, and I can believe thot after hearin' what he handed that man he soaked for the big fine for mashin'."

The Heinegabubaer

ANOTHER SKINDICATE STORY

By IVAN WHINN

The Post-Dispatch Novelist.

WHEN Bobbie heard what Mose had accomplished in Paducah his smooth, babyish grin or boyish face was contorted with rage. "To think we let that goat work that game!" he exclaimed.

Bobbie was what old ladies call a nice boy. He never swore, smoked or drank. Also he was never known to tell along legitimate lines, yet the glory of Solomon alone was comparable to his sartorial splendor. Chief of a gang of St. Louis brigands he only stopped short of the use of knockout-drops and weapons in separating innocents from their money.

"If we don't do something to that Sweeney I'll go to St. Vincent's. Think of something, Mac. I don't care if there isn't a penny in it."

"Penny!" said Mac reflectively. He was pleasantly engaged in thought while the gang sat comfortable and silent on the leather seats of a Planter's bar nook. At length Bobbie grew impatient.

"Open your face, Mac, and let us into the joke," he said.

"You fellows know what it is a heinegabubaer? Not? Well, I tell you."

"Cut the Rogers Brothers," Bobbie scoffed.

"Can't it be part of the joke. Heinegabubaer is Rogers Brothers' brand-name language. It sounds like Dutch but it ain't. It's a place you steer a green hand against to have fun with him. You take him upstairs to show him the art gallery, stand him on a trap in front of a picture and a stuffed club falls, soaking his head, or a stream of dirty water squirts out of the painted girl's eye and hits him in the face. Then he goes into a washroom to clean up and when he turns the faucet to get water in the bowl a shower falls all over him. He's ready to go home by himself about this time, and starts downstairs. You turn a crank at the top and the stairs fold up into a slick slide and he goes ker-plunk to the bottom. If he isn't dead or mangled by this time he acknowledges that he's a home, sure enough, and treats the crowd. They vary the joke a good deal, but the guy always gets the worst of it."

"Well!" queried Ed. "What's the answer?"

The gang knew Mac's way of prefacing a scheme with introductions of this character and waited calmly.

"Well," he said slowly. "If you fellows can't see something in it, I'll tell you something that'll give your imaginations. Perhaps it's too early in the morning, eh?" He looked around the circle innocently.

"I tumble," said Charley, suddenly. "How you going to work it?"

"You're going to work it," said Mac, firmly. "We're not in it. He'd suspect Bobbie or Hobbs or Ed or me. We've tossed you and you're out for a job. Write to Mose. Roast us and ask him to give you a bit. Hobbs got you some Columbia paper. We got some to work that theatrical skindicate scheme. Write your letter on that. It's in Mamie's desk, ain't it, Hobbs?"

"Leave it to me," Hobbs said.

Mose, successful beyond his dreams, answered Charley's letter with blatant boasting and the statement that at present he was unable to do anything for Charley unless Charley could get him a line on some good people for headlines through the Tate-Middleton people.

Charley, at Mac's dictation, offered a list of eight famous vaudeville people for dates scattered through the season, and at cut-rate prices as he said, they could fill these dates advantageously while jumping from St. Louis to Louisville. "If you want them come up here and sign quick," he said.

A telegram answered the letter. "Be in St. Louis tomorrow morning, Mose."

The gang waited at the station to welcome Mose, but Mac said no. "He'll get off at Washington avenue, and the station is too small for us. We don't want to show our hand. Let Charley meet him, and by the way, Charley, go in old clothes. Make him buy your breakfast and stake you. Who's got a pawn ticket?"

A Moment's Merriment

GETTING BACK AT HER.

PAPA WAS A POET.

NO EAR FOR MUSIC THEN.

Mr. Henry Wise (after her refusal)—well, this is the first time any enterprise I projected fell through.

Miss Lotta Coyne: There is a difference between love and business.

Mr. Henry Wise: I know, but I considered this one of my boldest financial strokes.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Then came the rude search by patrolmen, endured with drunken stoicism by the erstwhile boastful theatrical magnate. In an evil-smelling cell he slept stertorously twelve hours.

Past midnight he awoke, his throat burning. At head aching, his situation appalled him. At first he could not account for it, but gradually his mind. One fact was clear—he had passed his roll to Bobbie, who had promised a bondsman.

He called the turnkey and demanded to know the hour. There was not a word for the ordering of Mose was on a lavish scale. But Mose was also giving up the inner history of his Paducah transactions, incidentally flashing a roll of bills big enough to trip a dog. He was one of those men who love to carry all their available capital in their pockets and show it to less fortunate acquaintances.

"Me for the Planter's," Mose said, and Charley managed to telephone the fact before leaving the restaurant.

In the Planter's office Bobbie was casually talking with a clerk when Mose and Charley arrived.

"Hello," he shouted cordially, and shook hands. "Glad to see you. You're a sick one," and he winked roughly at Mose. "How'd you do it?"

Now to come back triumphant to the place and the gang where your position was once humiliating is good. To be greeted cordially and appreciatively by one who formerly looked down on you is sweet. Mose felt the goodness and the sweetness of it. If he had been swelled before he grew bloated now.

"That's a long story," he said sententiously.

"Come into the bar," Bobbie said. "Mac's in there. We'll celebrate."

Mose did not pause to get a room. He checked his baggage and went to the bar.

"Hello," shouted Mac across the room and rushed forward to greet the magnate of the Paducah Odeon.

Mac and Bobbie contemptuously ignored Charley, who continued the part of the cast-out or renegade humbly attached to the tails of Mose.

It was a m. but Mose bought champagne. He would consent to nothing less. The welcome of his former leaders was flustering his head and he needed the exhilaration of lavish expenditure.

An Ed mentally commented when he "accidentally" entered on this love feast Mose was "falling to them in great shape." He not only bought, but he drank. He grew loud, criticized the condition of the wine, objected to bottles out of the refrigerator that were not frappe.

Marvel of marvels and wonder of wonders, the abashing Bobbie drank champagne. His glass filled again and again was quickest emptied. His face grew flushed and his speech sarcastic.

Mac's story of success in Paducah, doubted Mose's opulence, had to be shown the roll of and then demanded that it be counted to prove that it was not composed of one-dollar bills. He claimed to have information that Mose had played skin poker in a Cairo hotel and the roll was the proceeds of the game. Then he assumed that Mose had told this story and that it was false for the reason that Mose did not know the first principles of poker and couldn't beat a bluffy story keeper out of crackers.

There was in no mind to resume his former humiliating position toward Bobbie. Conscious of his changed condition and emboldened by wine he avowed faith in his poker prowess. Bobbie demanded to be shown and they retired to a room over a Sixth street saloon where, "fantasie" though it seems, Bobbie bought champagne.

Mose lost rapidly, and though befuddled his sixth sense awoke. Money was going out of his hands like leaves before a wind. He called a halt.

"You've got 'em stacked," he said, belligerently.

There was uproar, on which entered two policemen, with whom Mose struggled valiantly and ineffectually. When conquered, torn and bleeding and somewhat sobered, he discovered that his companions had fled.

Dragged protesting down the stairs, he was thrust into a patrol wagon. At the police station was Bobbie, smooth, debonair and sober beyond belief. Mose was permitted to speak with Bobbie, who seemed on excellent terms with the police.

"Pass me your roll," whispered Bobbie. "I'll get a bondsman."

The sixth sense was slumbering and Mose gave up the roll. Bobbie, who had promised a bondsman.

"Gracious!" replied Miss De Muir, "how can you read in the dark?"

Nell: I told him if he dared to kiss me he'd be sorry for it.

Belle: And he was?

Nell: No; but I was; I was sorry I told him.

HEMMETER IN MARATHON RACE

St. Louisan Admitted at Last Moment by New Illinois Athletic Club.

St. Louis will be represented in the Marathon race in Chicago Sept. 23 by Frank Hemmeter, who ran fourth in the Marathon race at St. Louis May 6. This decision was reached by the New Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago Tuesday after considering the matter for nearly a week. Hemmeter did not make application for entry within the time prescribed by the rules, and for that reason was at first barred. He leaves Wednesday for Chicago.

CHAT OF THE DIAMOND.

Frank Chance is proving a worthy successor to Seale as manager of the Chicago Cubs. Chicago fans think Chance classes with LaJoie and Wagner as a hitter, and is better than either of these recognized stars in base running and fielding.

"I have been correctly quoted," says Jack Sheridan. "This is the last season I shall umpire. Twenty years is enough."

Noelie Hain desires that he intends retiring from baseball, and says he will accept the best engagement that is offered him conditionally. "I will devote myself to veterinary surgery for the remainder of the season, and try baseball again in the spring. Whatever trouble I am having with my arm is only temporary. I am having with my arm is only temporary. I am having with my arm is only temporary."

George A. Huff is looking over the players of the Vermont League for the Chicago Cubs. "This is the last season I shall umpire. Twenty years is enough."

Charles Nichols still has the freest, easiest movement of any pitcher in the business. "I've been correctly quoted," says Jack Sheridan. "This is the last season I shall umpire. Twenty years is enough."

Jim McGuire has been playing continuously for 22 years. In all that time he has never been fined or disciplined in any way. No umpire has ever addressed him except in terms of affection. Jim is all that a baseball player should be. He is a gentleman, a gentleman, a gentleman.

When Bob Wicker, pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, was a young fellow he pitched on a Southern college for the Chicago Cubs. "I pitched a game in the American Association in 1902 which lasted 30 minutes," says Jack Sheridan. "This is the last season I shall umpire. Twenty years is enough."

Reathel modestly attributes a large share of his success to Frank Chance's coaching. "I pitched a game in the American Association in 1902 which lasted 30 minutes," says Jack Sheridan. "This is the last season I shall umpire. Twenty years is enough."

PREVIEW HOT TIME AT THE ST. L. U.

Coach Dowd Surprises Squad by Hustling 'Em to Practice.

It has finally been decided that the football game between St. Louis University and the University of Illinois will be played Oct. 14, though whether it will be in St. Louis or Champaign is uncertain.

There are some stiff and some students at St. Louis University. This morning, Coach Dowd, the new football leader, who succeeds Martin Delaney, Reber, McMorrow, Henrichs and Manager Griffin, were out. Kinney, Howe and Irwin were not out, but are expected any day.

Following is the schedule the Blue and White will face this year: Oct. 7, State Normal at Warrensburg; Oct. 14, Illinois University; Oct. 21, Rose Polytechnic; Oct. 28, Drury; Nov. 4, James Milliken; Nov. 11, Missouri at Columbia; Nov. 18, Kentucky University; Nov. 25, Iowa University. Coach Walker, who is about the busiest man seen on the local gridirons for some time, has been in the field more than a week and already are quite hardened.

A good game is expected Saturday, although the contest is not looked upon as more than a practice affair. The W. A. C. team is composed mostly of High and ex-Smith Academy players. Smith, Funck, the two Broomes and Newcomb are some old Central players who will play against their old school.

High School Line-Up. Walker probably will make numerous changes in the line-up during Saturday's game in order to give all the men a try-out. The opening line-up will be as follows: Ends, Castlen and Donohue; Tackles, Bottler and Wagner; guards, Robinson and Morton; center, Wunch; quarter, Sherris; halfbacks, S. Morton and Klein; fullback, Aid.

An election of a captain to succeed Earl Smith, who will not return this year, will be held soon. Bottler and Sherris are the most prominent names mentioned for the place.

Out at the Christian Brothers' College campus, Coach Wilbur is plugging along, trying to make first-class football men out of boys who are little more than High School caliber in respect to skill. He is the same way last year, and yet the big crowd had one of the fastest teams in the city. He has every evidence of repeating his former success.

The followers of the Cote Brillant School are looking forward to the end of the week when a number of heavy men are expected. With these to work upon Wilbur says he will have a worthy team in shape to face Central High next week.

Blow at W. U. Football affairs out at Washington University seem to have subsided a bit. A number of meetings between Coach Fairweather and the football candidates have been held, but no real work has been done. The school term opens, Sept. 26, and all the students turn out.

Smith Academy held an excellent training practice last Friday. But since then have quieted down. Coach Chas. will have the men out again some time this week.

Would You Believe It?

That the Boston Americans got 19 hits and 16 runs in the second game at Washington, yesterday, while in the first game they were forced to be satisfied with four hits and two runs.

Stones got one hit yesterday, but his batting average for the game was higher than for the season. He is credited with three times at bat, making his daily average .333.

Some Burckett got three of those 19 hits. Bill Amour's Detroiters are enjoying a second lease on life and are tied with Cleveland for third place. His pitchers are going the best of any in the A. L. right now and a great finish seems probable.

The way Jack Thielman smashes the ball it would seem advisable to have him top the batting order. He has hit three times in succession when he has meant runs that would win the game.

PLOTS AGAINST SAITO DOMINGO

Leaders Want to Precipitate a Revolution Before United States Congress Meets.

TO OVERTHROW MORALES

Ruler Is Taking Necessary Measures of Precaution to Thwart His Enemies.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 18.—It is asserted that the Santo Domingo exiles residing in Porto Rico, Cuba and the adjacent West India Islands, are preparing a revolutionary movement, which it is their desire should begin before Congress meets. Ex-President Don Juan Lloreda Jimenez, after making two trips to the Danish Island of St. Thomas for the purpose of conferring with leading Dominican revolutionists, has removed from Mayaguez and has made Ponce his headquarters.

It is also rumored that Francisco Detehen, a prominent San Dominguan, who has resided for the last few months in a secluded part of the suburbs of San Juan in order to escape undue attention, has gone North for the purpose of raising a loan. The money, it is obtained, is for the purchase of arms and ammunition.

Gen. Demetrio Rodriguez, governor of the Monte Cristi District, has been joined by Gen. Cespedes and his brothers, Gen. Cespedes was one of the principal factors in placing Gen. Morales in the presidential chair of Santo Domingo. Cespedes has quarreled with Morales on account of the latter's transactions with the American Government, and has hastened to join his forces with those of the enemies of the present Dominican Government and American intervention in Santo Domingo.

Holdy American in Abhorrence.

Americans who have not been in Santo Domingo cannot form the slightest idea of the horror and abhorrence in which the majority of the natives hold the Americans as rulers. United States statesmen will be greatly deceived if they accept the assurance of the Dominican statesmen that the revolution will not long continue in power.

The leaders of the revolution, however, effect that the people want American rule. Judging from the statements of the masses, this assertion is entirely false. The Santo Domingans are waiting patiently for the day when the United States Congress, but while they wait they prepare themselves for a great struggle.

HIGH COLLAR TURNED KNIFE, SAYS O'MEARA

Believes Robbery, Not Revenge, Was Motive of Attack on Him at Home.

MADE DEMAND FOR MONEY

Assailant Drew Revolver and Mr. O'Meara Struggled With Him for Weapon.

John B. O'Meara, former Lieutenant-Governor, said Tuesday that he felt sure robbery was the only purpose of the man who attacked him on the porch of his residence, 4528 Washington boulevard, Monday night, stabbed and slashed his right cheek and escaped.

"I have made political and business enemies," said Mr. O'Meara, "but I cannot imagine that any of these would be responsible for an attempt on my life."

"Strips of gauze conceal the deep cut inflicted by his assailant on Mr. O'Meara's face. The porch and lawn of his home show marks of the encounter in which Mr. O'Meara believes that, but for the height of the collar he wore, he would have lost his life."

"This lock on Washington boulevard was as quiet as a country road last night," said Mr. O'Meara. "I was sitting on the porch smoking a cigar. There was no light in the house, nor any in the adjoining houses. There is a lamp on the other side of the street, but the trees obscured its light."

"I saw a man come up my walk. Does Mr. Taylor live here?" he asked.

Man Drew Revolver.

"There is no Taylor on the block, and I told him so. Then 'Is this 4528?' he asked, and as I began to explain to him that he was on the wrong side of the street, he jumped in front of me, and all of a sudden had a small revolver in my face, saying in a low tone: 'Your money or your life?'

"I jumped up and grappled with him. We wrestled over the lawn I pushing his revolver hand away from me and he biting at me and struggling to get his other hand free. I threw him on his back on the lawn, and as I tried to wrench his weapon away, he got his other hand free, thrust it into his pocket, and pulling out a knife—it must have been a spring knife—slashed at my throat, cutting my right cheek. My collar kept the blade from the jugular vein."

"Then as I released him, he seized his hat, which was lying on the grass, and ran through the yard, leaping through a double swing, and out the back gate."

After checking the flow of blood Mr.

Victim of Assault, His House Where He Was Attacked and Diagram of Struggle With Armed Assailant

JOHN B. O'MEARA

O'Meara walked to the office of Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw, car Taylor and Washington avenues, and had the wound dressed. It was necessary to take six stitches in the gash.

"My identification of the fellow will be perfect, if he is caught," said Mr. O'Meara.

"He was dressed in a dark suit, sack coat, had a brown or sandy Van Dyke beard and mustache, dark hair and was about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches, and of slender build. He spoke in well modulated tones and in every way gave me the impression that he was a professional man. I should say he was about 35 years of age."

No one was at the O'Meara home at the time but the Lieutenant-Governor and the servants. Mr. O'Meara is 53 years old. A sister, Miss T. O'Meara, who makes her home with him, is now in the East.

STATISTICS OF THE RISE.

Stage of river at 5 p. m. Monday ..... 25.5

Stage at 2 p. m. Tuesday, 27.55

Danger line ..... 30

The following is the river forecast Tuesday by the local Weather Bureau:

"The Missouri River east of Kansas City will fall during the next several days, but there will be a further rise not to exceed .5 of a foot at Hermann, Mo."

"The Mississippi River between Graton and Chester, Ill., will continue to rise at a greatly reduced rate. At St. Louis the river will come to a standstill Wednesday at a stage not exceeding 29 feet and will begin to fall at this point Wednesday night or Thursday."

"The Illinois and Upper Mississippi rivers will not change materially."

From 4 p. m. Monday to 8 a. m. Tuesday the Mississippi rose nearly two feet, but in the opinion of river men the river will not go over 30 feet and the crest, they think, will be reached by Wednesday night.

Capt. T. Garrison of the Mark Twain said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday:

"The rise in the river is due to freshets, and in my opinion it cannot last over 24 or 36 hours. On account of the condition of the lower rivers there need be no fear of the flood on the part of the people in St. Louis or the inhabitants below here. The Ohio River is very low, so low in fact that the steamers have been taken off. Other tributaries of the Mississippi are exceedingly low."

Lower River Relieved.

"This condition has relieved the lower Mississippi and makes it possible for the lower river to carry much more water and more quickly. If the Ohio and other rivers south were high the rise in St. Louis would be much greater and there would be cause for fear."

According to advice received by the steamboat companies in St. Louis the river landings between here and Cairo are in fairly good shape. Only the lowlands are suffering.

The river shipping interests in St. Louis are engaging all the laborers to be found in the city and much of the endangered property is being transferred to more secure places.

The city's harbor boat, Mark Twain, has rendered good service to the river men, particularly in the vicinity of North Market street, where several lumber companies had vast quantities of timber partly submerged.

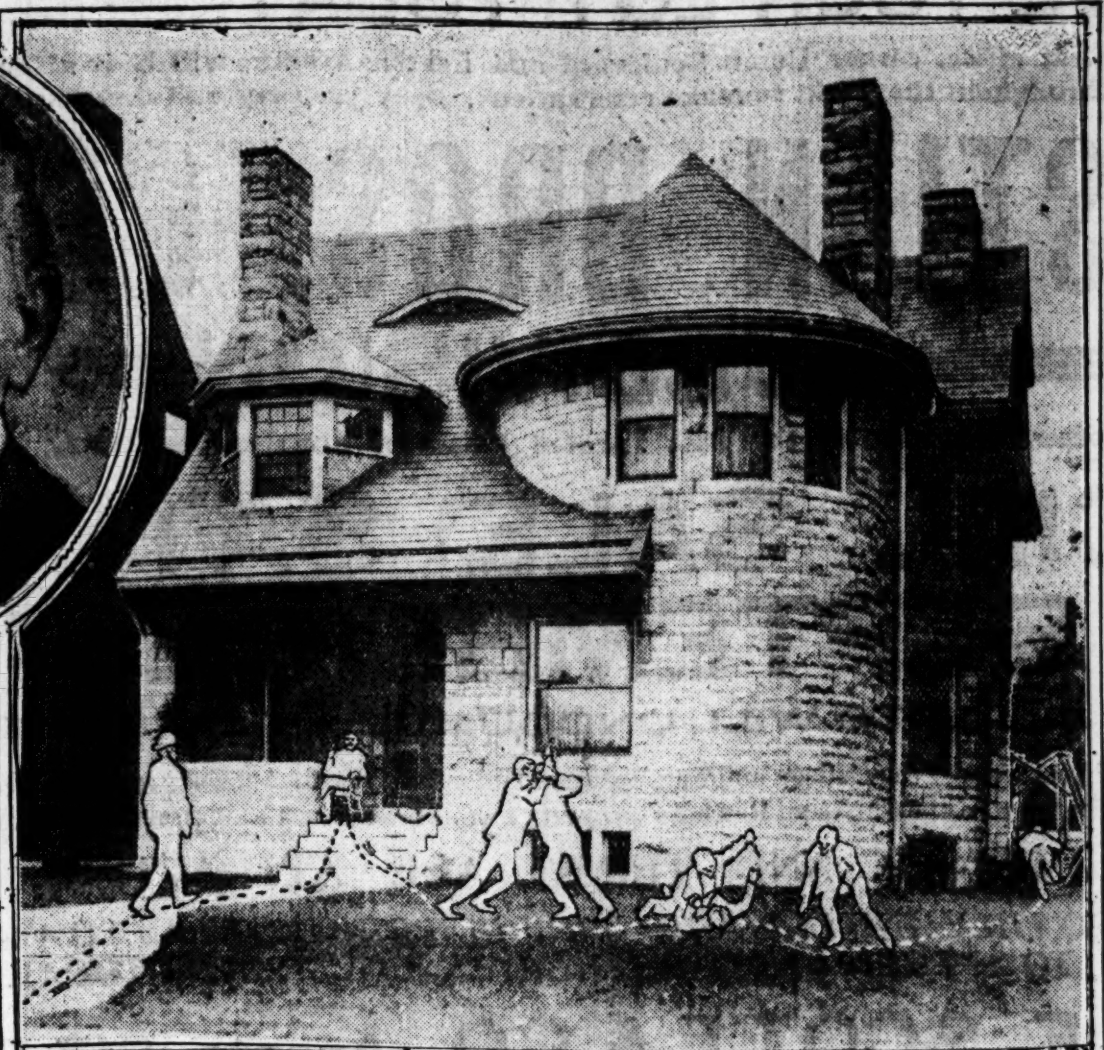

About 5000 feet of lumber at the North Market street wharf was saved yesterday with the assistance of the harbor boat.

The lumber was boomed, pending the arrival of the Mark Twain. Then it was moved to the wharf. The Mark Twain was paid $1 an hour for removing the lumber to dry land.

4 NEGRO RIOTERS TAKEN BY POSSE

Search Still On for Ringleaders of Battle in Cane Bottoms.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—A posse of deputies has arrested John Bynum, Tom Walker, Seabrook Moody and Jim Deekery, four of the negro desperadoes who defied the authorities in the race riot at Germantown, and brought them to the County Jail in Memphis.

Deputy Miller has returned to Germantown with another posse and will continue searching for Abe and Chris Bynum and Charles Reed. The negroes are known to be well armed and are hiding in the cane bottoms.

A posse of citizens, armed with rifles and pistols, went last night to the place where Bynum was supposed to be hiding. They arrived at the Bynum cabin at midnight to find the negroes gone.

Constable Eugene Scott, who was shot and wounded in the race riot Saturday night, died last night. He was shot in the chest by a bullet fired by a negro who had been shot down by Abe Bynum.

Another terrible assault is reported from the bottoms near Germantown. The scene of the riot. An old white man whose name has not been learned, but who is foreman of a levee gang, became enraged. One struck him with a club, knocking him down. Another split his head open with an ax. A third shot him in the chest, and the bullet passing through the palm of his hand. He is said to be dying.

GREAT WOMEN'S DISPLAY.

Opening Days at Grand-Lader Shows Magnificent Selection.

The Grand-Lader during their opening days are showing more novelties and original designs in all departments than ever seen before in their big store.

The showing of imported millinery is one of the most interesting from a standpoint of exclusive models all are most charming and authoritative French styles for fall and winter wear.

The cases display original models from leading milliners of France, among them being such celebrities as Camille Rogers, Mons. Lewis, Georgette, Reboux, Suzanne, Blum, Vivot, Tord, Alphonson, Charlotte and others.

NEW LEATHER TONES.

One especially beautiful model by Camille Rogers is in the new leather tones. The toque is of shaded grebe breasts with sweeping plumes of shaded brown. Another model is in soft fine felt of rich prune tone, with graceful ear-clip on under rim and garden of roses shading from deep prune to cerise.

One model of Alice blue rolls very high and is caught jauntily up with plume and maroon. Here are hats for every occasion and purpose in this department. Elegant hats for evening wear for the coming season in fashionable world, the horse show, carriage and ready-to-wear hats.

One of the most important events to women is the opening display of the creations in the cloak and suit department. It is the readiness of service and general completeness of this section that make shopping a pleasure.

The suit section is teeming with two and three-piece suits at prices acknowledged to be the most reasonable. All these suits are in the latest colors, including violet, pearl, porcelain blue, wine red and green.

THREE-PIECE SUIT.

One model in wine red is fashioned with triple skirt inset with rich velvet. The suit is in three pieces and the bodice and chic jacket are close fitting, trimmed with Persian embroidered chiffon cloth and buttons.

The showing of evening wraps made by the Grand-Lader makes a wonderful display. The models in champagne-toned cloth with pastel embroideries and buttons and others in all black velvet with festoon on net and brilliant clasps are masterpieces of the dressmaker's art.

One lingerie gown is made entirely by hand, rich and at the same time delicate embroideries brought into relief by fleecy quiltings of Valenciennes and pinch tucks was intended for the display at the exposition at Liege, Belgium, and back to the Grand-Lader.

BY RENOWNED MAKER.

A blue-green chiffon and silk gown with delicate pink rose garnitures, the work of Drecois. The separate bodices in rich black hand-embroidered laces, combined with heavier or lighter materials, are shown in profusion. In the fully equipped girls' and women's section on the third floor are party dresses in embroidered mull and lawn, guipure dresses, tulle suits, school and afternoon dresses, in serges, plaids, fancy velvets. The coats include fancy embroidered, dress coats in cloth and velvet, seven-eighths coats, automobile and crocheted raincoats.

INCUBATOR EXPLODED.

An incubator in the shed at the rear of 454 Easton avenue exploded Monday and set fire to the shed. The property is owned by Mrs. Ross Sadegher of 645 Clayton avenue. The damage is $100.

WIFE FINDS HUSBAND DEAD.

John Heitzenweder, aged 33, a cigar-maker, living at 162 Lyndel street, was found dead in bed by his wife at 5:30 a. m. Tuesday. He was 2 and a half years old when he was born. He was a peaceful man, and his death was a surprise to his family.

HEMMETER WILL TRY.

Frank Hemmeter, the single entry of St. Louis in the Illinois Athletic Club's Marathon race, will face the strongest opposition in the country.

Word has been received from Chicago of the entry of Louis Marks of the Mohawk Athletic Club of New York and of Thomas J. Hicks of the Cambridge Athletic Club of Cambridge, Mass. Hicks was the winner of the first prize in the Boston A. A. race in 1904.

Hemmeter will leave for Chicago Wednesday. He will represent the St. Louis University Club. He has shown superiority over other runners in the past. Hemmeter has trained for several weeks and some of his time for 15 miles has averaged six minutes.

STREET CARNIVAL DELAYED.

On account of the heavy rain the carnival coming which provides the attractions at Fair on North Illinois street, at Belleville, Mo., will be postponed to a later date. There was a fairly large crowd on the street, but the rain was too much for the people. The carnival is expected to be a great success.

DELHI DAM BURST.

The dam holding the Chicago & Alton canal at Delhi, Ill., gave way Monday and the water spread over the surrounding country. The canal was used as means of storing water for the engines. Thousands of fish were in the canal.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes.
